The governor will make a brief statement at 4:45 p.m. at the Kansas State Fairgrounds. He will face Lt. Gov. Jeff Colyer, who was appointed to replace Brownback when he resigned in 2016, and former GOP House leader Ray Merrick. “Kansans have entrusted me to guide our state for the next six years, and I’m ready to get back to work,” Brownback said. “So, I look forward to making the 2018 Kansas primary and general elections a success for the people of the state.” Brownback did not rule out a run for president in 2020. Colyer is Brownback’s campaign treasurer and political advisor. A 2013 Kansas State Board of Education candidate for re-election, Colyer serves as deputy state treasurer. Merrick, an attorney from Olathe, is a former state senator and secretary of state. He was elected lieutenant governor in 2009. Brown 3e33713323
